Jay Cooke, the Government Loan Subscripion Agent, has just completed arrangements with Wells, Fargo & Co., of San Francisco, which will place the Seven-Thirties, through game of our enemies; but Mr. J. C. Hooker has the machinery of their three hundred offices on two good eyes, and looks sharply out of them the Pacific side, in every nook and corner of both. He knows that this was not the way in California, Oregon, Nevada, and Colorado. Large shipments of Seven-Thirties have already been made by Mr. Cooke to San Francisco for the purpose of this expected subscription.

There is no doubt that immense sums o hoarded gold will thus be exchanged for Government securities, and that the ordinary flow of gold from San Francisco to the Eastern markets will be swollen by the unlocked hidings and savings of a multitude of working people who want regular interest and security for their principal. To promote the diffusion of the Seven-Thirties on the Pacific side, all the active machinery employed in the Atlantic States, the traveling agents, the advertising in the newspapers, the circular letters; and the diffusion of hand-bills containing information in a popular form, will there be set vigorously to work. Gold-gamblers here will please take another warning. The people on the Pacific slope will soon drop gold on them, and in volume, too.

AMERICANS AT ROME-MR. J. C. HOOKER.

To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune. Sin: I have read, with equal surprise and re-

"Rebels in Rome;" surprise, that any "gentleman of high respectability" could vouch for the many mis statenents which the article contains, and regret that THE PRINCIPLE should have lent itself to their publication. I wiff endeavor to answer, briefly and temperately, this had been as follows: editorial indictment of Mr. J. C. Hooker, and of our late and present Ministers at Rome, Mr. R. M. Blatchford and General King. Mr. Hooker is de-nounced, to the Government and the public, as a disloyal "Rebel," an active sympathizer with and justifier of the Kebellion, and one who had used what, ever "Influence be had in Rome against our Government and its credit;" while Mr. Elatchford and Gen. King are represented as fully cognizant of this state of There is not one word of truth in the story. Mr. Hooker, so far from being a "Secessionist" or "Rebel," has been earnest, steadfast and outspoken on the side of the Government and the Union, and he has proved his faith by his works. The charge is supported by a specification. I will quote it: That, at Mr. Hook 'er's instance, for "the avowed purpose of releasing the secessionist visitors at Rome from the necessity of taking the oath of allegiance, and also from the neces' sity of having recourse to, or any intercourse with, the representative of the North," the Papal Government dispensed with the cisa of the United States Consulpreviously required upon American passports. Now, sent), marned to his surprise, that Secessionists were allowed to leave Rome science the Consular rise. He at once called upon the Cardinal Secretary of State, te ask why this exemption, if granted to any Americans, ould not be extended to loyal citizens as well. The Cardinal replied that there was no objection; that the Papal Government was satisfied with the Police visor and that, for his own part, he hoped, ere long, to see passports and rises dispensed with altogether. It was, and obtained the exemption of which THE TERBUSE in the following form: seems to complain.

I have the best authority for saving that it does not save him one penny. Indeed, if he should see fit to give up the "arrangement" and transfer the Legation to a "back" or front room in some other "bank" or building not quite so centrally or eligibly situated, the Min ister might drive a very good bargain by the change. And that is all I have to say on the subject AN AMERICAN IN E-ME. Rome, Feb. 11, 1865, Remarks.
